MOTOR IMPROVES AS HOURS ARE PASSING

Are Just Getting Second Wind. Note Dropped Tells World

Salisbury, Calif., July 11.—Pilots Mendell and Reinhardt passed the 25th hour of sustained flight at 9 a. m. (P. C. T.) today, extending by 43 hours the record set by Lomb and Mitchell at Cleveland last week.

The first indication that the prolonged flight was beginning to wear on the men and the plane was contained in a note that floated from the runway from the endurance car today.

The note alluded to a "noisy motor" and failed to include the usual "no fuel" message.

"All right," said the note. "Motor is all right, but not bad. Had a little trouble with oil pump last night, but have straightened it out today."

The fog had lifted to a ceiling of approximately 1200 feet after day break and the Angelinos found a new lead at 800 feet.

Salisbury, Calif., July 11.—Grimy, weathered, Corl Mendell and R. Reinhardt today whirled monotonously toward their tenth dawn in the second-hand, single-engine biplane, piling up an amazing total of hours to their endurance record.

At 12:30 o'clock this morning (P. C. T.) the indefatigable pilot pair started their 210 hour or continuing flight.

"We're just getting our second wind," said the note tossed from the Angelinos.

"Looks like low fog coming," they agreed from down below. "We will wait for an early morning landing."

Their prophecy materialized across the fog. Mendell and Reinhardt brought their ship lower and continued to swing pendulum-like with the beams of a huge searchlight to a landing.

The Angelinos' motor, an old reconditioned Wright whirlwind which already had seen 450 hours of service before being installed in the endurance ship, was running sweetly, even improving, as was indicated by the lower consumption of gasoline. The engine is consuming on an average of 11 1/2 gallons of gas an hour. A total of 2402 gallons has been fed by the refueling planes.

WOUNDS FATAL TO OHIO KILLER

Mayor of Detective Is Dead; Faced First Degree Murder

Springfield, O., July 11.—Just one week, almost to the hour, after he had shot and killed Detective Oliver Holderby in a gun battle, Theodore Barakat, 22, Louisville, (Ky.) gangster and gunman died in the Clark county jail here today.

Barakat suffered a bullet wound in the gun battle which occurred in the Arcade hotel here Fourth of July morning.

His condition was not believed to be serious and after treatment at a hospital he was lodged in the county jail.

Complications set in last night, and after three hemorrhages, which tore loose his old wounds, the gangster died, and the death of Holderby was avenged.

Holderby shot the man while he lay wounded from a bullet wound when Barakat had fired into his abdomen.

The shooting resulted when detective went to the room of Barakat where the gunman was staying with a woman, after seeing the Louisville man drive up to the hotel in a stolen automobile.

When the detectives accosted the man, Barakat, led them to his room where he suddenly opened fire. Holderby was shot and died within a few minutes. Another detective was wounded but is recovering.

Well Known Movie Stars Are Suspended

Hollywood, Cal., July 11.—Five well known motion picture actors today stood suspended from membership in the Actors' Equity, following a meeting of the organization during which the suspensions were declared.

The actors temporarily dropped from the Equity roll, are: Tully Marshall, Anders Randolph, Raymond Hatton, Louise Dresser and Henry Otto.

Rewards Ready For Endurance Winners

Los Angeles, July 11.—L. W. Mendell and R. B. Reinhardt went "broke" to achieve their ambition to remain in the air longer than man ever had before, but plenty was being done today to remedy that.

Today unsolicited contributions to an "appreciation fund" were pouring in and the total already is in excess of $10,000. And—

A gift of $2000 was announced by the Wright Aeronautical corporation of Paterson, N. J.

A 200-horsepower Wright Whirlwind motor was given by the Pacific Airmotor works.

A $12,000 sister ship to the Angelino was ordered by the Buhl Aircraft company to be ready for Mendell and Reinhardt when they returned to earth.

COLUMBIANA CO. GIRL DROWNS IN BEAVER CREEK

Many Deaths Reported In Waters Over State; Search for Bodies

East Liverpool, July 11.—Firemen of East Liverpool and Midland today were grappling for the body of Miss Frances Seckman, 17, drowned Wednesday afternoon in Beaver creek near the state line.

Miss Seckman and her chum, Miss Eunice Wright, 16, were bathing in shallow water, when they were caught by a swift current and dragged over the rapids into a 20-foot hole. Miss Seckman could not swim and Miss Wright was nearly drowned in an attempt to save her.

John L. Russell, 21, a companion, succeeded in bringing Miss Wright to shore.

Miss Seckman was a senior in the East Liverpool High school.

Dayton, O., July 11.—With the turbulent waters of the Miami river receding, search for the body of William Faber, 18, who was drowned in the rain-swollen stream Tuesday when the canoe in which he was riding capsized at the dam at West Carrollton, near here, was resumed today.

Meanwhile, word has been received here today that Marion Lowe, 19, and Joseph Cardosi, 21, a second canoe team, who were reported missing and were believed drowned, had reached Louisville, Ky., at 11 o'clock last night, lowering the canoe-paddling record from Dayton to Louisville by four hours.

Gerald Van Pelt, companion of Faber, who narrowly escaped drowning when the canoe capsized, is under a physician's care here. He is threatened pneumonia.

The parents of Faber are frantic over the fate of their son.

Cleveland, July 11.—The twelfth drowning victim of the season here was Mike Kulcher, 19, for whom funeral arrangements were being made today. He became entangled in wire attached to old guard post and drowned while bathing in Lake Erie.

Zanesville, O., July 11.—Frank J. Grossman, 57, was drowned in the Muskingum river here, when he attempted to exchange seats with a companion in a boat and fell overboard late yesterday.

Springfield, O., July 11.—Miss Maybelle Watts, 13, was drowned when she stepped into a hole while wading in a small stream near South Charleston, in this county, late yesterday.

Elyria, O., July 11.—Search for the body of Ernest Wash, 10, drowned last Monday while wading in the Black river, in Cascade park, ended today. John Machock and Thomas Ryan, park employees, came across the body while out in a canoe. It was recovered a mile and a half from where the boy drowned.

Liquor Arrest Is Fight Aftermath

Lisbon, July 11.—Charged with selling intoxicating liquor, John Pondi residing on the Lisbon road near the new Lincoln highway bridge, was fined $200 and costs by Probate Judge Riddle on an affidavit filed against him by James Wilson.

Wilson explained to the court there was an "argument" at the Pondi place and that Pondi hit him. Wilson then told the court that he had purchased some beer from Pondi, and then he filed an affidavit against him.

Yancey and Williams In Eternal City After Ocean Flight

WILL NOT ATTEMPT RETURN BY AIR

Aviators Satisfied With Accomplishment In Long Voyage

Rome, July 11.—Proud over the distinction of being at last the goal of a successful trans-Atlantic flight, this city did its best today to furnish an enthusiastic welcome to Roger Q. Williams and Captain Lewis Yancey of the ocean-spanning plane Pathfinder.

From an early hour of the morning, dense throngs packed the street in front of the Hotel Excelsior, where the fliers spent the night following their arrival from Santander, Spain, waiting for the aviators to make their appearance. Special squads of Fascist police were assigned to keep the crowds in order and traffic in the street was severely hampered by the congestion.

No program has been mapped out as yet by the fliers concerning their plans while in Rome, but it is expected they will remain here several days at least. Various aeronautical societies are anxious to pay tribute to their daring feat, and Williams and Yancey will undoubtedly have a busy round of entertainments during their stay here.

Both fliers were emphatic today in declaring they have no intention of attempting a flight back across the Atlantic.

"We have achieved our aim in flying across from west to east, and even though we did not reach Rome in one hop, we are satisfied with what we have done," Williams told International News Service.

EAST PALESTINE MAN DIES HERE

Death Claims William Buckalew In Hospital This Morning

William Buckalew, 43, East Palestine, died Thursday morning in Salem City hospital of injuries sustained Tuesday evening in an automobile accident, which occurred west of Columbiana, when the car in which he was riding overturned.

Buckalew was brought to the Salem hospital by a passing motorist, and there physicians found he had sustained fractured ribs. The ribs had punctured his lungs, death resulted this morning.

Buckalew was riding with Paul Doll, who lives on a farm north of East Palestine. It is reported that the rear spring on Doll's machine broke and he lost control of the car. The auto careened into a ditch, turning over. Both men were thrown clear of the car. Doll escaped with bruises about the face and body. He was not taken to the hospital.

Buckalew was a World War veteran and active in the American Legion interests. He had lived in East Palestine about 15 years and was employed by the National Fireproof company.

Surviving are his widow and one son, William, Jr.

Lecture Hour Held At Mt. Nebo Grange

The lecture hour program given at a meeting of Mt. Nebo Grange Wednesday evening at the hall, Salem-Lisbon rd., was composed of the following numbers:

Music by the grange; Flower drill; selections by a quartet composed of Herman V. Zimmerman, W. J. Weaver, S. A. Workman and Ezra Simpson; recitation, Margaret Cook; dialogue, "A Hasty Goodbye," Margaret Cook and Vida Simmons; stunts.

The grange will hold a social Friday evening. The next meeting will be on July 24.

Polly Lauder Much Improved, Is Report

Briani, Italy, July 11.—Mrs. Polly Lauder Tunney, bride of retired American heavyweight champion Gene Tunney, who underwent a serious abdominal operation, has improved so much that plans are under way today to take her upon a yacht cruise.

Professor Mayer, who has charge of Mrs. Tunney's case, after a consultation with two Trieste surgeons who are assisting him, gave permission to Mrs. Tunney to accompany her husband and a party of friends upon a cruise through the Adriatic and Mediterranean seas.

It is believed that the party will return to Briani in about three weeks.

AIR VIEW OF SALEM

This first airplane view of Salem was taken a short time ago by John Wolfgang of Columbiana, employed at the plant of the Mullins Manufacturing corporation.

On June 9, Wolfgang, a student flyer, piloted the Columbiana Flying club's plane from Youngstown to Salem. Here the controls were taken over by John Franklin, Youngstown pilot, while Wolfgang took the photographs.

This picture shows how Reilly field appears from the air and the upper section shows the Memorial building, library, Elks home, Masonic temple, Eagles home, American Legion home and postoffice.

Policemen Battle 38 Hours To Bring Man From Death Shadow

New York, July 11.—Paul Brignetti, who hung over the Valley of Death for a day and a half, was brought back to life today—although he did not want to live. A world's record for successful artificial resuscitation is believed to have been established.

Brignetti was found apparently dead in his room. He had turned on the gas deliberately. The police rescue squad was called. For 38 1/2 hours they worked in shifts over the unconscious man.

The oppressive heat increased the task. Each man fell back exhausted for a fresh worker to take his place. One policeman lost six pounds. Several lost four and five pounds apiece. One hundred and seventy-two tanks of oxygen were used.

In addition to the application of ordinary respiratory methods the inert victim was given alcoholic rubs and nourishment.

LIQUOR CHARGES FILED IN COURT

St. Clair Township Residents Pleaded Not Guilty To Charges In Lisbon; Furaish Bond

Lisbon, July 11.—Louis Zellers, St. Clair township, was arrested on a warrant issued May 28, for his arrest on a charge of possessing implements designed for the manufacture of liquor this morning and entered a plea of not guilty when arraigned before Justice of Peace M. K. Zimmerman.

The warrant was issued on an affidavit filed by Lloyd Wine, state prohibition inspector, last May, when a 30-gallon copper still was alleged to have been found in Zellers' home. He had been in hiding since that date, officers report.

William Zellers, charged with possession of intoxicating liquors, together with Louis Zellers, waived hearing and furnished bond of $1,000 for hearing before the next grand jury.

To Hold Service For War Veteran

A memorial service for Charles P. Woodward, Company K, 23rd Infantry, who died Oct. 4, 1918, in France will be held at 7:30 p. m. Friday at the home of his mother, Mrs. Kirby Sanor, 51 Hawley ave.

Rev. Charles Bailey, pastor of the First Friends church, will have charge and all legionnaires and other ex-service men are requested.

CLINIC BUILDING MUST BE RAZED

Gas Menace Still Lurks In Walls of Old Hospital

Cleveland, July 11.—The Cleveland clinic building where more than six score persons lost their lives in an explosion May 15, will be razed and a new building erected on the site, trustees of the clinic announced today.

It had been planned to utilize the remaining walls in reconstructing the clinic building, but when it was found that dangerous gas deposits remained in the walls, the trustees decided to raze the old structure entirely.

Plans for the new building have not been drawn up, but the trustees said it probably would be larger than the old one.

STRIKERS PLANT THEATER BOMBS

War Between Owners, Operators Again Looms With Partial Wrecking Of Akron Playhouse

Akron, O., July 11.—War between striking motion picture operators and theater owners flared anew here early today when the Ideal theater was partially wrecked by a bomb placed in the lobby.

Shortly before the explosion a man and a woman were said by police to have been seen leaving the theater but no trace of the suspects has been found. Damage was estimated at $1,000.

An attempt to bomb the Liberty theater was averted early today, police say by a merchant policeman who discovered a suspect planting several sticks of dynamite in the lobby. The man escaped after a struggle with the officer.

Motion picture theater owners were considering a reward for the capture of the bombers.

SIX KILLED AS TRAINS WRECK; BLAZE FOLLOWS

Trainmen Among Victims Of Crash In New York State

FREIGHT BUCKLES TO CROSS TRACKS

Passengers Escape Bad Injuries; Pullmans On Rails

Corning, N. Y., July 11.—Five men were killed outright and another died in the crash here today of a derailed east-bound Erie freight train and passenger train number 6 from Cleveland.

Three cars of the passenger train caught fire and were burned.

The dead are Engineer F. E. Blake, of Hornell, Freeman W. J. Latone, of Susquehanna, Pa., and Mail Clerk B. A. Faran, of Salamanca and H. M. Hulbert, of Lockport, and two tramps, who were riding the freight train.

The baggage, express and mail cars of the east bound passenger train caught fire and were destroyed.

The wreck occurred on a stretch of "rough track" two miles east of here. The freight carrying more than 40 cars, was proceeding on the west bound track when it crashed into some obstacle, derailing a score of cars. Amid this debris the bodies of the two hoboes still remained.

Train number 6, which had left Cleveland for New York yesterday was going 45 miles an hour when it crashed into the wreckage which had been strewn along the east bound tracks. The locomotive was hurled on its side, and the mail car crushed.

The other burned cars likewise were upturned and the victims had no chance to escape. Officials of the Erie believed that they had been killed instantly.

None of the 75 passengers was seriously injured, the sleeping car men were shaken up, but none required medical attention.

Wrecking crews rushed here on special trains expected to clear the right of way this afternoon.

Meanwhile all traffic in both directions was diverted to the Lackawanna tracks.

SCHOOL CHANGES ARE CONSIDERED

Meeting To Be Held In Washingtonville On Friday Night

Consolidation of the rural schools of Salem township will be discussed at a meeting of residents of that township at 8 p. m. Friday at the Washingtonville schoolhouse.

At a recent meeting of residents of Salem township in the Franklin Square school, it is reported that opposition to the new project was very strong. The burden of the objection seemed to be that the proposal was not understood satisfactorily by the people out in the districts affected, reports stated.

The plan is to have a centralized school for the grades in the township at Washingtonville, and have the high school located at Leetonia, it has been stated.

MURDER CHARGE CAUSES ARREST

Indiana Resident Arrested After Chase In Youngstown Streets; Was Visiting Brother

Youngstown, O., July 11.—Extradition proceedings were started today for the return of Thurman Luther, 22, to Murchey, N. C., where he is said to be a professional boxer, last arrested in Struthers, a suburb, last night. Handcuffs were taken off in the police station, and Luther leaped through an open window.

He was recaptured after a two blocks' chase by Peter Boddy, president of the Slovak baseball league, and Harry Williams, scores of citizens joined in the chase.

Luther had been living for two days with his brother, Samuel, in Struthers.

Find Body After Hard Rescue Work

Martins Ferry, O., July 11.—The body of George Griffiths, 45, Somerset mine owner, was found from his mine early today after 30 hours of intense rescue work by state mining inspectors.

Griffiths was entombed by an explosion at the foot of a shaft where he was working and which was 180 feet below the surface.

Auto Kills Boy

Zanesville, O., July 11.—Walter Lincoff, 12, is dead here today having been killed when an automobile struck a coaster wagon on which he was riding late yesterday.

Monkey Business In Ohio Capitol

Columbus, July 11.—There was "monkey business" abroad in Columbus today.

Patrolman J. B. Sears was handed a report by his captain at city jail saying that "his brother wanted to see him right away at such and such an address."

Officer Sears immediately journeyed to the designated place and found a small pet monkey on the rampage.

A 77-year-old woman, Mrs. A. F. Williams had been bitten by the animal when she attempted to wrest a flower pot from it. Her wound is not believed to be serious.

The monkey, tossed several hard cans about in the yard and otherwise generally created a disturbance. The pet made monkeyshines, according to Sears.

The patrolman called the owner, E. R. Burnside, a neighbor of Mrs. Williams, and the latter succeeded in capturing the monkey.

SALEM PROJECT HIGHLY LAUDED BY ENGINEERS

1,000 Attend Opening Of Disposal Wednesday; Hold Banquet

STATE ENGINEERS IN ATTENDANCE

City Chemist Conducts Guests Through Plant; Explains Treatment

Fifty city and state officials, representing executive and engineering departments of governments of Ohio, West Virginia, New York, Illinois, Oregon, New Jersey, Michigan, and Pennsylvania, lauded Salem's new sewage treatment project, at its inauguration of the first anniversary since the ward of the contract for general construction, Wednesday.

More than 1,000 persons, half of them out-of-town guests, visited the plant, during the public opening, yesterday, despite inclement weather which kept the crowd down.

Mayers, city engineers, chemists, service directors, city managers, sanitation and engineering experts from the eight states made an all-day tour of the works, studying the project which has been recipient of enthusiastic comment from authorities from the entire country.

"Greatest In United States"

"One of the greatest plants in the United States" is reported to have been the comment of Wayne Kivell, representing the engineering district of Chicago, following a complete investigation of the plant, in company with other Illinois officials. Surprise was expressed by the visiting officials, at the rapidity of the plant's completion, the lowness of cost, and thoroughness of treatment.

F. H. Waring, chief engineer of the Ohio state department of health, discussed its advantages over older types with Salem city officials.

W. L. Stevenson, Harrisburg, Pa., chief engineer of the state department of health in Pennsylvania, and E. S. Tidale, Charleston, W. Va., head of the engineering department of the West Virginia health organization, accompanied Waring, and participated in discussion.

Visiting officials were entertained at a banquet and open forum sponsored by the Freeman-Jones Construction company, of Cleveland, builders of the plant, last night. Mayor Hiddleston was master of ceremonies, calling on each of the 30 persons present for comments on their inspection of the works.

Mayor E. W. Wiegand, of Lakewood, was present with E. A. Fisher, city engineer and J. A. Parsons, head of the Lakewood building inspection department. Mayor G. Lloyd Weil, of Akron, with Akron's sewage engineer, S. B. Blackburn, and other officials attended.

Many Notables Attend

Other outstanding figures in attendance at the opening were: Mayor L. W. Gibson, of Pottsville, City Engineer A. T. Lundberg, of Erie; A. B. Cameron, city chemist, of Erie; C. W. Hummel, chemist, of Canton; Karl P. Geiser, professor of political science, Oberlin college; L. A. Sears, city manager, Oberlin; E. C. Rummell, Sturgis, Mich.; H. C. Cooper, Niagara Falls, N. Y.; Ralph Berendson, mayor, East Liverpool; J. W. Moore, service director, East Liverpool; J. H. Larkins, superintendent filtration, East Liverpool; C. F. Laber, mayor, East Palestine; R. G. Miller, superintendent of sewage plant, Columbiana; R. C. Sweeney, sanitary engineer, Toledo.

Portland, Ore., sent a representative, as did Newark, N. J., and other New Jersey cities. Technical students of the Universities of Wisconsin, Illinois, Chicago, Oberlin college, University of West Virginia, and other educational institutions, and representatives of municipal governments of Van Wert, Cleveland, Alliance, and other Ohio cities, who failed to register at the plant, also attended.

Salem visitors totaled 500, Mayor Phil G. Hiddleston reported today.

Visitors were escorted through the plant by City Chemist R. P. Vickers, who explained various processes which sewage undergoes.

Heavy Rains Cause Delay On Road Work

Lisbon, July 11.—Wet weather has seriously interfered with the construction of new concrete roads in Columbiana county, it being impossible for trucks loaded with road material to travel over the new subgrade immediately after the heavy rains.

Contractors have been held up very little on account of slow delivery of materials at unloading points, although some slight delay was occasioned recently on account of the non-delivery of cement to be used on the Elkton No. 7 road.

CHARITY TO GET MILLION IN WILL

Accounting Of Estate Of Wealthy Youngstown Woman Reports Requests Go To Hospitals

Youngstown, O., July 11.—A final accounting was filed today in the estate of Lucy R. Buechner, one of the city's wealthiest women who died a year ago, leaving nearly a million dollars to charity.

Her total estate was valued at $1,442,020. Hospitals were the principal beneficiaries, receiving $445,400. She left $25,000 to the home for aged women; $25,000 to the Memorial Presbyterian church; $10,000 to the Maternity nurses, and $25,000 to the Children's Service bureau.

BUILDING FOR THE FUTURE

One of the most difficult problems in the world is to convince people that improvements should be made for the good of future generations. Projects requiring large expenditures are especially difficult to manage, because altruism in the rank and file is notoriously scarce.

Road building is one of the places where lack of foresight has caused waste and inconvenience. Construction work done under the planning and supervision of one administrative group has been torn up to make way for the ideas of the succeeding group. Narrow roads built in the days before mass production of automobiles flooded the highways have been wrecked to make way for wider thoroughfares. Greed and graft have taken their toll of funds and have established a basis for the belief that enough money is being put into road construction that any increase will merely open up so much new territory for the crooked office-holder.

Michigan offers a wonderful example to what can be accomplished if the taxpayers and the road builders unite in a belief that mere payment of millions for highway purposes is not enough, but that there must be intelligent planning and careful spending. A law enacted in Michigan in 1925 enables two or more counties to join together for the purpose of acquiring right of way for a super-highway and major thoroughfare system in accordance with a definite plan. For this purpose, they may impose a tax of not more than one half mill on all the property in their respective counties. The super-highway work of counties thus joined into districts is administered and controlled by a commission consisting of the state highway commissioner and three other members.

Under this plan, two super-highway districts have been created. Detroit and the surrounding regions constitute the greater of these. Some conception of the importance and magnitude of this far-sighted project may be had from the fact that 110.33 miles of 204 foot right of way has been acquired in the three counties of Wayne, Oakland and Macomb. A total of 576.90 miles of varying right-of-way acquired in these three counties discloses a minimum width of 86 feet and a maximum of 204 feet. There are 38.93 miles of the minimum width highway and more than 100 miles of the maximum width. Plans for the future include a total of 263.42 miles of 204 foot construction for the three counties. These accomplishments have been made possible through the unselfish cooperation of all members of the commission, composed of some of the state's most successful business men.

Michigan, by embracing a program of building for the future, has acquired a justified reputation for its highway system. Ohio is just starting work on a similar program under the National Road Improvement Association of Ohio. Although primarily interested in improvement of that part of the Old National road which is in Ohio, the movement is comparable to the great work undertaken in Michigan and merits the support of every Ohio taxpayer.

People must be brought to realize that vast expenditures of money can be made to show results in intelligent highway construction which will not only serve the present need, but will be adaptable to the future demands of highway usage. The automobile is here to stay and roads, which make the automobile possible, should be built to last as long as it is humanly possible to make them last.

MONEY

They have made the bills smaller so that the overladen man can carry more of them. The reduced size will also make it more difficult for the grafters to find them hidden away in the corners of public offices. The picture of Washington has been placed only on the $1 bill, because everybody knows Washington and his familiar face will assure the possessor that it is not a $100 bill that he is trying to tug out of the wadded mass of money in his pocketbook.

Everybody is improving, but they have just made a start on the improvement of money. The possibilities have barely been scratched. Among many suggestions are the following:

Vulcanize rose thorns on all paper money. Make them long enough to penetrate gloves or a thick skin. Stain the thorns with purple dye so that they will leave an indelible mark. Print spendthrift warnings in each corner in type large enough so that they may be seen by a short-sighted man. In the middle of the bill place a colored photograph of an irate landlord, a second-hand automobile lot, or a basket of groceries.

Change the color of the money from green to red. Make it a brilliant red so that it will hurt the eyes. Green is too restful for other people's eyes. Change all the pictures from those of statesmen to facsimiles of death heads. For underlines use, "This man died from overwork." "This poor devil died from hunger." "Here's one that let worry get him" and so on down through the list of the bugaboos that get men when they are not well fortified with money.

Another suggestion is a vacuum stamp on each end to hold the money fast to the corner of the table in case of a high wind during a game of chance. Civilization would also be aided and abetted by a mousetrap pocketbook in which to carry currency. There hasn't been much said about it as yet, but it is a question as to how much the pocketbook manufacturers will make out of the money change. The new bills will get lost in the old away-back bill folds formerly necessary to carry the legendary cow-choking roll. Some enterprising person will devise a way to exact a toll on the evolution of money and new pocketbooks will be popular birthday gifts for a few years to come.

Yes, the evolution of money has scarcely started.

What Others Say

MORE STOWAWAYS

Once upon a time, in response to loud and prolonged outcries of distress from the farming population of a certain country, the lawmakers made preparations to launch two relief planes. One as called "The Spirit of Agricultural Marketing," and the other was called "The Spirit of Tariff Revision, Limited." The first machine experienced the ordinary trials and delays incident to such an undertaking. For a long while the two motors, house and senate, continued to sputter against each other. There was a good deal of dumping of gasoline and studying of weather charts, and there was one anxious moment when the plane seemed headed for the telephone wires outside the field, but the machine succeeded in getting away, to the relief of the spectators if not of the farmers.

"The Spirit of Tariff Revision, Limited," had no such luck. Again and again it tried to rise from the ground but failed. The tail of the machine dragged so heavily that it seemed as if the fuselage would be torn in two. Thereupon an inspection was ordered and carried out with the most surprising results.

Out of the tail of "The Spirit of Tariff Revision, Limited," which was supposed to carry a few chicken sandwiches for the navigators and fuel in the form of high agricultural duties, the police proceeded to drag an endless line of stowaways. They yanked out, by the legs, a couple of heavy rustabouts named "Shingles" and "Bricks." Then they reached in deeper and hauled out in quick succession a number of notorious idlers and ne'er-do-wells — "Cement," "Hides" and "Leather," "Boots" and "Shoes," "Clothespins" and "Sewing Thread," "Cotton Goods" and "Woolens." In the Chemical family alone they pulled out no less than 32 hobby schedules.

The situation was so serious that the flight of "The Spirit of Tariff Revision" was postponed till the end of the summer, in the hope that enough of the stowaways could be got rid of to permit the plane to rise. But that all the panhandler schedules would be eliminated was the expectation only of boys and girls in the lowest two elementary grades. — New York Times.

Had To Quit Work; Konjola Set Me Right

Victim of Complications About To Abandon Hope — The New Medicine Was Found

MRS. CLEO ADAMS

"Ten years ago my trouble started with indigestion, and soon my kidneys and liver were all out of order," said Mrs. Cleo Adams, 896 1/2 North High Street, Columbus, O. "Then I became nervous, and soon was forced to quit work. Through the lack of sleep and nutrition, I became weak, rundown, tired out and discouraged.

"When I had finished the third bottle of Konjola, I was without a pain, my bowels were functioning as they should, digestion was restored and my liver and kidney system disappeared as if by magic. I had quit work, but Konjola set me right and I am back on the job again.

RESPIRATOR ILLS
COMMON IN INFANCY

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
(United States Senator from New York)

I wish little babies could be spared the diseases to which they are liable. But in the nature of things some of these precious infants must suffer as babies have from the beginning of time.

DR. COPELAND

The breathing organs are the weak portions of the child's anatomy. It is here trouble is likely to be found. That is why the "respiratory diseases" are so common in very early life.

Among such ailments is what the doctors call "acute bronchopneumonia" or "catarrhal pneumonia." Another name is "capillary bronchitis."

The disease is really a form of pneumonia, the peculiar pneumonia of infant life. It is the most common of the pneumonias or "lung fevers" met with in early life.

While the disease may be more common in cold weather, it is seen in every month of the year. As a matter of fact according to some figures I have seen a third of the cases appear in warm weather.

Well-nourished, well fed and well kept children are far less likely to have it. If there is some underlying weakness of the system it is more to be dreaded.

This is an ailment which is sudden and severe in its action. The whole attack may be compressed into the short period of 24 hours.

The temperature runs very high. There is extreme prostration, blueness of the skin and rapid breathing. The poor youngster is dull and may be actually unconscious.

A strong baby will rally and throw off the disease within four or five days. The attack, as I have said, may come on suddenly, but, in spite of its severity it clears up speedily. If your baby shows signs of difficult breathing, has loss of appetite and gives evidence of fever send for your doctor. Don't wait a day or two for expert advice. It is always better to be on the safe side.

There is much to do to make the infant more comfortable, and that is another reason for medical attention. Your own anxiety and sense of responsibility will be lessened if your doctor is at hand.

STYLE EDICTS

Paris, July 11.—Paris is putting her evening editions of fashions in particularly pretty prints this summer and everybody who is anybody must get into them at least two or three evenings a week or she cannot claim to be in the chic set.

These prints are dainty and ladylike, with a definite turn to the floral designs which Nature provides. The thinner and more delicate the fabric, the bigger the print. But the designs are blurred and softened to produce a charming effect.

Many are in startling colors, for instance a bright French-blue with the design in several tones of the same shade and still another in a design of large pointed jade-green leaves on a creamy background, made over a jade-green slip equally striking.

Golden threads make gay the print of a delightful georgette evening frock. The colors are soft greens, reds, yellows and beiges. Another comes in flowered tulle and is fitted and draped making a silhouette reserved for the slim and slender.

One dressmaker uses cream colored chiffon patterned all over with pretty old-fashioned pink roses and green leaves, with rose petals cut out of the roses that grow on the chiffon itself. There is a hem of them and at the left side a wide flaring panel with a narrow ruffle at the top.

A grey and blue printed evening gown has an unusual drapey on the blouse and skirt. One dressmaker uses a full-draped back on her printed frocks falling in hood-like folds below the normal waistline.

Nearly all of these printed chiffon evening frocks not only reach to the ankles and often touch the floor at the back, but are also much longer in front than those of last season, in some cases reaching halfway between the knee and the ankle.

HARVARD PICKS FILMS TO SAVE FOR POSTERITY

Motion Pictures Classified Along With Classics Through Progress

Cambridge, Mass., July 11.—Taking its place together with music, literature and the rest of the fine arts, motion pictures as a field, have been recognized by Harvard University and twelve examples chosen as masterpieces of 1926 will be placed in the archives of Harvard to be saved for posterity.

A committee appointed by Dr. G. H. Chase, dean of the department of fine arts, with Dr. Chandler R. Post, professor of that department, as chairman, made its selections of the first of a series of groups of American and Foreign motion pictures which will be preserved because of their artistic merit.

Pick Big Pictures

The 1926 films which Harvard deemed worthy of perpetuation were Ben Hur, Aloma of the South Seas, A Kiss for Cinderella, Tell It to the Marines, The Black Pirate, What Price Glory, The Strong Man, The Duchess of Buffalo, The General, The Waltz Dream and Variety, the last two foreign.

It was expected that these films together with others chosen from the best of other years, will eventually rest in the Fogg Museum of Art, where Harvard cherishes millions of dollars worth of examples of other arts.

"Motion pictures are a fine art," declared Dr. Post. "I have been interested in them for twenty years, first because they were destined to be the most potent medium of expression, second because they have increased steadily in artistic value."

Elements Considered

"The committee has considered dramatic value, acting, photography, all the component elements, which go to produce genuine artistic effect in a motion picture."

Besides Dr. Post, the Harvard committee of Fine Arts on the selection of films comprised Dr. George Edgell, of the Architectural School, Dr. Ralph Barton Perry, of the Department of Philosophy, Dr. James Tucker Murray, of the Department of English, Dr. Martin Mower, professor of painting and design, and Frederick H. Rahr, of the Fine Arts department who served as secretary of the committee.

OUR READERS

SCHOOL TROUBLES

The people of Salem township were rather rudely awakened from their customary indifference toward educational affairs by a recent announcement that a major part of their rural schools were about to be consolidated with the schools of Leetonia, that their school board, elected by the sovereign vote of the citizenry of the township had been disbanded. This news item also carried the announcement that unless a project were made to the county board of education on or before July 6th, the consolidation scheme would immediately go into effect.

Although but a few days remained, a handful of active citizens, headed by W. H. Marshall of Franklin Square, hastily called a protest mass meeting at the Franklin Square school house for Monday, July 1. Word was carried from mouth to mouth and by announcement in the paper and as a result the two-room building was jammed to the doors with outraged citizens who expressed opposition in net uncertain terms not only to the project itself but to the secret methods used by the county board of education in attempting to railroad the plan through without the knowledge of the people of the township.

Members of the county board were asked for but none seemed seemed to be present. Several members of the Salem township board were present but when questioned as to the project itself and as to why it was put over without notice to the public, etc., these supposed educational representatives of the people appeared as ignorant of the affairs as a resident of Mars.

After much discussion a motion, demanding from the county board that they hold up action on their plan at least until they could inform the people as to the why of the project, was unanimously passed.

Committees representing each of the rural districts were then selected to circulate a petition throughout the township opposing the plan.

On Saturday, July 6th, after canvassing their several districts, the petitioners presented the results of their work which contained the names of an overwhelming majority of the citizens of the rural districts of education, and these rural representatives were somewhat rudely informed by District Superintendent J. L. Gray, that they were too late, that the final date for such a protest was Tuesday, July 2nd. The rural representatives were then asked to leave as this was a "closed session."

The county board, however, did not dare to proceed in the face of such opposition, so they decided to call a enlarged meeting including the boards of Leetonia, Washingtonville and Salem township as well as the county board. This meeting is scheduled for 7:30 p. m. Friday, July 12th, at the Washingtonville school house. All citizens of the township are invited.

This meeting should be an overflow gathering of all the people of Salem township. Let every one rest assured that if the voice of the people is heard on Friday night, those in authority will be guided by the ancient Roman maxim, vox populi, vox Dei (the voice of the people is the voice of God).

KEEP COOL WHILE DANCING

"When a girl is dancing," says Sally Star, left, "she doesn't want folds and things clinging to her legs." That's why she likes this youthful frock fashioned of apricot chiffon with silver sequins forming an all over pattern. The three cornered scarf collar of georgette gives the whole a piquant effect, and the skirt's just a comfortable length for dancing. As for Sally Blanc, right, her favorite dance dress is a French blue chiffon, with flounces over the bodice which join a fluttery cape in the back.

FISTS WEAPONS OF BORDER MEN

Scorn Guns In Taking Two Men Wanted On Dry Charge

Fort Kent, Me., July 11.—Bare fists have supplanted pistols in prohibition enforcement on the United States-Canadian border line in this section.

United States customs officials today made public the news of a fist fight to a finish on the American side with Maxine Albert, known as "the millionaire bootleg king" of northern New Brunswick and eastern Quebec and his alleged lieutenant, Fred Burgoyne, pitted against United States Customs Patrol Inspector Frank C. Ford and Customs Inspector Matthew W. Rinfrette, formerly of Worcester, Mass.

Both Albert and Burgoyne were overpowered after a still fist battle in Frenchville near the St. Johns river.

They were taken to federal court at Bangor, Albert was released on $5,000 bail pending his appearance to answer a secret federal grand jury indictment charging conspiracy in the alleged shipment of two carloads of ale seized at Van Buren last winter, Burgoyne, a resident of Frenchville, was released under $1,000 on a charge of resisting an officer.

COLUMBIANA

Members of the Columbiana band and Benjamin Firestone, Post-American Legion spent several pleasant hours Monday evening at the legion hall, where the legionnaires entertained, a lunch being served by the Ladies' auxiliary of the post.

Cards were the chief diversion of the evening. The regular last business meeting was held, being advanced from Wednesday. The following were appointed committee chairman for the annual street fair, which will be held Friday and Saturday, Sept. 21-22: Concession manager Homer C. Culp, publicity manager, Ray Fisher, premium committee, Russell M. Beck, street committee, H. M. Hoover, trade committee, Thomas Harrold, special prize committee, Raymond Gleckler, solicitation committee, Leo E. Holloway.

Members of the Columbiana Rotary club enjoyed another member talk at their meeting Monday evening Roy Harrold giving an all too brief account of the development and manufactured products of the Harrold Tool company.

A group of Columbiana girls will leave Saturday to spend their vacation at Camp Y.O.C. the Y. W. C. A. camp on Lake Erie. They include: Garnet Miller, Betty Britton, Louise Fullerton, Catherine Detwiler, Virginia Shaffer, Eleanor Lehman, Ellen Warwick, Miriam Forbes and Lucille Diefenbacher.

The annual picnic of the Young Ladies' Bible class of the Presbyterian Sunday school, as held Tuesday evening at Kadey's park. The families of the members were also in the party.

Mrs. W. H. Britten and daughter Betty, attended a tea at the home of Mrs. K. C. Kerr, Youngstown, Monday afternoon, the Chautauqua Reading club being the guests.

Meeting Date Changed
The July meeting of the Past Grange, club of Pandora Rebekah lodge will be held Wednesday evening, July 17, instead of July 18, as previously reported. Mrs. H. W. Hammond and Miss Latta Trolle are the hostess committee.

SWEDISH PLANE RESUMES TRIPS

Within Two Hops Of Goal, Is Message From Greenland

Stockholm, July 11.—The Swedish monoplane, Sverige, bound on an attempted flight from Stockholm to New York, has arrived at Iqviut, Greenland, competing successfully the third leg of the flight, according to a wireless message from Julien-haab, Greenland today.

Time of the arrival was not given, but earlier reports detailing progress of the flight from Reykjavik, Iceland, indicated that Capt. Albin Ahrenberg and his two companions in the venture, were considerably behind their schedule.

After a brief rest at Iqviut, the Julien-haab message continued, the aircraft hope to leave for Anticosti Island, in the St. Lawrence river, their last stop before they take off for New York on the final leg.

Flight of the Sverige started from Stockholm on June 9. The first stop was Bergen, Norway, and the second Reykjavik, where the fliers were detained for several weeks owing to several false starts and continued bad weather.

POLICE ARREST TWO IN HOLDUP

Akron Man Beaten And Robbed In Downtown Business District; Suspects Held In Case

Akron, O., July 11.—W. L. Michalske was beaten and robbed of $40 and thrown from his car here early today by two masked men he reported to police. He said he was attacked by the pair while he was sitting in his car parked in the downtown district. Police are holding two men who gave their names as Earl Smith and Carlos King in connection with the holdup.

Remains In Jail

St. Clairsville, O., July 11.—When Robert W. Chambers, 28, called at the county jail here to inquire about the title of a mine hoist which had been sold at a sheriff's sale, Jailor William Hynes recognized the young man as the person described in a Tucson, Ariz., request for arrest. Chambers was invited to stay in jail. He did.

Theosophist Dies

SENATOR FINDS POTOMAC RIVER QUIET BEDROOM

Yacht Gets Cool Breezes After Leaving City Each Night

Washington, July 11.—Senator Jesse H. Metcalf, who hails from wind-swept Providence, R. I., is the lone member of congress who has found a way to escape the "South's hot nights." He sleeps on the Potomac.

In event of a filibuster and a quorum of senators is demanded to vote a measure during the wee hours the sergeant-at-arms would have to be an expert oarsman or swimmer to come within hearing distance of Metcalf.

Every night the motor yacht Felicia drops its moorings opposite the Capital Yacht Club in Potomac channel and heads downstream where the breeze blows from Chesapeake Bay and the Atlantic.

Out of Reach
Maybe the telephone or radio could be used in such an emergency. No one knows, however, for Metcalf has been loathe to announce the communication system of the Felicia. Like most "tired business men" he feels his day's work is through when Vice-President Curtis yields the gavel and adjourns the session. He doesn't like to be disturbed.

The Felicia is the summer home for the Metcalfs. It is 122 feet long, carries a crew of twelve to fifteen men and in addition can accommodate six guests. It has a speed of eleven knots per hour.

The opening of the season for cut-board motor boats has caused Metcalf to realize he is "imperiling" his family in midst of a "speedway." The placid Potomac is being churned constantly by the flotilla of speedboats and accidents can happen if the boatmen are not wary.

Activities of the "water speeders" have changed the slogan, "everything's quiet along the Potomac." The drone of their unmuffled boat engines echo against the shores from early morning to just before the milk is distributed here.

Scene of Races
The boatmen race one another; take out sight-seers and "moon-gazers"—the latter being their "late customers." Many have found "spooning more romantic" on the "quiet river" that decrees it is once "quiet river" that decrees it is Virginia on one of its banks and the District of Columbia on the other.

The situation has been placed before the district commissioners. A speed limit of twelve miles an hour on the Potomac has been suggested. "The matter is being considered by the local department."

Senator Metcalf, who is enjoying a luxury, President Hoover cast aside when he scrapped the presidential yacht Mayflower soon after his inauguration, may be asked to give first hand testimony as to "the way they speed" on the Potomac.

Berkeley, Cal.—A valuable collection of native weapons and religious totems from the wilds of northeast Arnhem land Australia, was presented to the University of California by Dr. Lloyd Warner, former student.

Committee Rules Quakers Must Meet Mullins For Loop Title

League Board Decides Forfeited Game Will Have To Be played

Damascus Quakers considered champions of the first half of the loop, must wait until they meet the Mullins. The league board has decided that the forfeited game will have to be played.

This announcement was made today by Joe M. Kelley, manager of the loop, following a conference with the board of supervisors, who came to that conclusion. The board is composed of Homer Bow, editor of The News; A. Earl Beardmore, treasurer of the Citizens National bank; and Lawrence Reas-

The Quakers were scheduled to play the Mullins earlier in the season, but the game was not played, due to the improvement of the Mullins. Kelley decided that the game could play at Damascus, but the Mullins was unable to get its players together the evening the title was forfeited, and the decision was made to forfeit the game to the Mullins, giving it a record of seven straight wins.

Mullins' players, however, frequently protested the forfeit, and the matter was brought before Kelley, who submitted it to the ruling committee.

Mullins Has Chance

Mullins has a slight chance for the title, and must defeat Damascus to win it.

The Mullins have a record of seven straight wins, and are the only team to have defeated the Quakers.

The Mullins-Mullins clash will be one of the outstanding attractions of the mid-season, both teams being fairly evenly matched in strength. The Salem combine has a slight edge in hurling, with Gordon Amisberg on the firm line, and may possibly turn the Quaker descendants back with their first licking of the season.

Billy Wallace In Win Over Grogan

Cleveland, July 11.—Billy Wallace, Cleveland lightweight, today held a 10-round decision over Tommy Grogan, of Omaha. Their fight before 10,000 fans in Taylor bowl here last night was regarded by many as the best seen here in months.

Wallace came near ending the fight late in the third round when he sent Grogan to the floor. The bell saved him. Grogan came back strong and in the ninth staggered Wallace.

He decisively whipped the rugged Ignacio Fernandez in the 10-round feature at Ebbets field, Brooklyn last night.

Teammates Defend Wilson

Reds Given Responsibility In Assault Case

By Davis J. Walsh
New York July 11.—Lewis "Hack" Wilson, the sterling youth who brought the Boer beer age back to baseball, if only for a day, when he tried to punch his way through the Cincinnati player limit and lived to testify in his own behalf in the ensuing investigation, is just another Pagliacci whose public life has been made a tragedy by the jeers and taunts of fans and fellow players.

This was the version of the Wilson-Kolp-Donohue incident presented today by Joe McCarthy, Chicago manager, a version that, with certain amplifications, will be aired before President John A. Heydler at the final hearing of the case tomorrow.

It probably will save Wilson for the Chicago line up without further penalty, since it will furnish the second of the customary two sides that are supposed to make up every story. The understanding here is that Wilson will be told to go forth and seek no more.

McCarthy defends "Hack" Wilson. Before it is completely told, McCarthy and other Chicago witnesses plan a series of counter-charges, one of which is that Ray Kolp, Mr. Wilson's original opponent, applied an investigative that could only be recognized in the immortal way. Another of these is that the Stephenson-Critz "spiking," believed to have been the origin of the interclub feud, was no spiking at all. A third will charge that it was the Cincinnati players, and not Wilson, who were looking for trouble.

"Wilson never looks for trouble," said McCarthy. "But it is his misfortune that he gets it. His peculiar build and his intensity of manner has made him a target for all the chump wise-crackers around the circuit and personally I don't see how he has stood it as long as he has. He is a very sensitive fellow and it would take the hide of an elephant to live down the riding he has absorbed. As for Kolp he did not get what he deserved, after the name he called Wilson. No red-blooded man would have taken it and I'm glad that 'Hack' didn't. He was distinctly the abused party in that incident, at least."

It so happens, of course, that Wilson is being tried at the moment, not for the socking of Mr. Kolp, for which he already has been penalized, but for the subsequent socking of Mr. Donohue. However, the Chicago testimony will attempt to prove that Mr. Donohue would have gone unsocked indefinitely, if not for all time had there been no Wilson-Kolp vendetta on the ball field earlier in the day. The Donohue socking, they say, was just an outgrowth of the Kolp socking and, therefore, subjective to an incident for which Wilson already has paid his penalty, justly or unjustly, as the case may be.

Mullins Ekes Out Easy Win Over Sanitary

With Gordon Amisberg hurling almost perfect ball, the Mullins took their first decision of the second half in the city baseball league, defeating the National Sanitary combine, 11-1, at Centennial park, last night.

Two hits, one of them a circuit-clout by Barnes, were all that the tub-makers garnered from the delivery of the Mullins hurlers. It was the second consecutive game in which the Sanitary was held to a pair of bingles.

Bob Campbell, Mullins third-sacker, had a perfect day at the stick, slamming out a homer, and three singles in four trips to the batter's box.

Injury To Cochrane Hurts Athletics' Flag Chances

Macks, Though, Gain On Yanks In Splitting Bill With Browns; Nine Homers Feature Pirates Win Over Phillies; Cubs Trim Pirates

By Henry McLemore
New York, N. Y., July 11.—Wanting one rib must be in sound condition and in no danger of cracking. For immediate delivery.

Don't be surprised if you run across this singular notice in a few of our leading dailies, for Cornelius is likely to get that desperate in his desire to get Catcher Mickey Cochrane back in the Athletics' lineup. Since the fiery catcher took to the bench with an injured stat, Mr. Mack's hopefuls have taken two and dropped four, which is certainly no way to win a flag.

Yesterday they managed to break even in a double bill with the pesky Browns, thanks to the fancy flinging of Howard Ehmke in the first game who allowed only two hits. This picked up a half-game on the Yanks who staggered around all afternoon before the fast shoots of Alphonse Thomas, White Sox hurler. Gehrig continued in his hitting slump but Babe Ruth smacked a couple of doubles and was risky no end on the bases.

Marty McManus, second baseman, for the second time within a week saved the Tiger's tail from being twisted by slapping a homer with Jim Bottomley with his 22nd.

The once-mighty Cards took another slide toward fifth place when they blew one to the Robins. Johnny Fredericks, the Robins' amazing young fly-chaser, rapped out his twelfth career hit of the year while Chuck Haley pulled up alongside Jim Bottomley with his 22nd.

Cubs Wallop Giants
In another of these crucial affairs the Giants couldn't "buy" Bush and the Cubs fortified their second place position by whipping McGraw's boys in the first of a five-game series. Bush allowed only seven hits. "One Round" Hack Wilson, after being generously razed for eight innings, answered his tormentors with a homer in the ninth.

Pittsburgh showed no signs of quitting their tremendous hitting, in swamping the Phils, 15 to 9. The Bucks slammed out five home runs, two being from Grantham's bat, while the Phillies chipped in four. The clubs came within one home run of the major league record total for both clubs in a game.

Incidentally, there were 12 homers smacked in the National yesterday with six being cracked out in the American.

"MY MAN"
Fannie Brice, the inimitable comedienne, makes her motion picture debut in the special production, "My Man," which comes to the State theater tonight for a run of three days.

In the story Miss Brice bears the stunning revelation that her younger sister has left home to become the intimate of a wealthy theatrical producer, and it is around this circumstance that this absorbing screen romance revolves.

The film story of "My Man" introduces the sketch of the same name, which has long been recognized as Miss Brice's most sensational success. She is cast as the hard working elder sister of an incorrigible girl and a small boy. Love comes her way in the person of a muscular demonstrator she first sees in a drug store window. The love story that follows is tender and wistful though at times intensely amusing.

In the story, Edna Murphy plays the role of the younger sister, and other important parts are enacted by Guinn Williams, Andre de Segura, Richard Tucker, Billy Seay, Arthur Hoyt, Ann Brody and Clara

Miss Selwynne Archie Mayo directed.

In the glowing, colorful extravaganza of Broadway uses and loves, "Syncope," now playing, singing and talking at the Royal, a veritable riot of musical and singing numbers have been included many of them original.

"Syncope," marks a new departure in film technique. It endeavors to tell the story of a pair of Broadway hoeders, married, and separated by ambition until both are reawakened in their love for one another by the revolving circumstances of the plot. The producers resolved to make the film with an eye to both plot and musical accomplishment and the result was what is billed as a musical film extravaganza, designed to give the effect of a Broadway operetta.

On this account "Syncope" ripples with musical and song accompaniment. There are nine jazz numbers by Waring's famed Pennsylvanians two song numbers by the Melody Boys, three haunting songs by Morton Downey, a song by Dorothy Lee, a soprano solo by Gena Zelenka, radio artist, two numbers by a string orchestra, a piano selection by David Buttolph.

STYLE EDICTS

Paris, July 11.—Gloves are growing up and will certainly be full size before the leaves begin to fall.

Very long gloves climb almost to the shoulders of the wearers, frocks being worn at the waist, and this in spite of the increasing danger for sunburn. Plain car gloves are more popular than ever and have almost completely ousted the familiar model with the little cuff.

Half-length gloves are worn pulled over the sleeves of tailored costumes and gaudily are buttoned up the back and worn with cunning little purses buttoned up the side. Braided straw makes very brilliant trimming on new gloves perhaps the best known glove maker in France, and others have a slender binding of gold or silver balls trailing down flaring cuffs.

The two-colored fringed kid gauntlets remind one very much of Buffalo Bill. Some favor long black kid for evening wear, either very plain or embroidered in gold. Bright scarlet gloves were seen at Longchamp recently worn with a costume of the same shade.

French glove manufacturers preparing for autumn and winter lay stress upon the washable skins in plain styles. The turn-back cuff is giving way to longer, straight pull-on types with elastic wrist or bracelet strap, the latter generally of plaited leather.

Interlocking hookless units fasten a new cover for cushions or pillows.

HOME-MAKING HELPS

By Wanda Barton

There are two kinds of good housekeepers. One is the aggressive, thorough type who puts most of her faith in hard work. She doesn't believe her house is really clean unless she has labored to the point of exhaustion. Not only must the rooms appear spotless to the eye, but she must know, by the ache in their bones, that there's not a speck of dust to be found on any surface, in the remotest corner, behind every door and picture frame. If she suffers from housemaid's knee, she does it with pride for it is proof positive of good housewifery.

This of course is an extreme type, and disappearing. But you can still meet these good ladies, like the dear soul in the Pennsylvania farmhouse who invited us into her kitchen with an apology for its condition—when it absolutely shone from floor to ceiling in immaculate order.

But there are more and more good housekeepers of the modern variety who know a good job can be done without exhausting labor. Oh yes, it's easy enough if one can afford all the labor-savers. If you can buy plenty of good equipment for cooking and cleaning, it's quite possible to duplicate the performance of one wealthy lady who made a hobby of house-keeping. With every convenience at her command, she would prepare a complete dinner arrayed in a fragile evening gown, and for extra swank have an Oriental rug in front of her stove! The whole performance was perfect, and everything left spotless.

However, for most of us who can possess only a modest few of up-to-date labor-savers this is a little too much. But we can save ourselves a great deal of work by choosing those tools that make one process of work that need to require two or three.

If you have surfaces that need polishing to look bright, buy items that will do the cleaning and polishing all at one fell swoop. There are dustless dusters that clean and shine polished surfaces at one and the same time. The result is just as good as following the old way—first dusting, then oiling, then polishing with a dry cloth. There is now on the market a special kind of chamber that cuts down the cleaning and polishing. It can be used to clean and polish painted woods and also mirrors, with just one going over. This fabric is chemically treated, and all you must do is to dip it into lukewarm water, then wring it dry. Wipe the surface to be cleaned and that's all there is to it. When the surface dries, as it does in a few seconds, it will be polished as well as cleaned.

Ordinarily steel wool helps a lot in reducing cleaning. Put cotton gloves on when using it, as it may cut into the hands. But by rubbing any stained or discolored metal with steel wool, both cleaning and polishing are accomplished at once.

If you like tinting and dyeing your own clothes there are on the market many of the new dyeing soaps which cleanse and dye the article at the same time.

And although dishwashing seems the most inevitable of all household drudgery, there are plenty of modest priced helps that will mitigate its horrors. A mechanical dishwasher is of course the happiest solution to the problem. But if you can't afford a mechanical dishwasher, you can at least cut out the job of drying dishes. Metal racks, in which to stack dishes for washing are now available everywhere, and cost in terms of cents. I know one bachelor who keeps house—and this species are inventive to the point of genius when it comes to evading housework—who carefully stacks soiled dishes in the rack turns on a hose containing soapy hot water for a few minutes, then another hose containing clear hot water for rinsing, and then leaves his dishes in the rack until the next meal.

THE HOME KITCHEN

By Jeannette Young Norton

"They say that veal is indigestible. And the elusive tribe of 'they' who can so easily give a bad reputation to good products are frequently right.

Because there are two or three ways of going wrong with veal. To keep on the right side first be sure to choose only the best grade. Best veal is that of a two-month-old calf. It should be pinkish with some clear white fat. If veal is bluish-tinted or almost white, and has no fat, it is not fit for food.

Next, be sure it is well cooked. Undercooking veal is a common error. Veal chops can't be cooked as quickly as steak or lamb. To make them tender, retain their juice and render them perfectly digestible, they need slow cooking.

Another custom that has given veal an unjustly bad reputation is excessive coating in heavy crumbs and then some less than perfect frying. It's the greasy crust that makes a nice little veal cutlet such a hazard to the digestion.

Apart from these possibilities for ruining a good dish, veal deserves recommendation. It can be used in so many ways. There are chops from loin and ribs—very good. Breast and shoulder are good for roasts. Neck makes an excellent stew—more delicate than beef. And the knuckle of veal can be made into a delicious jellied meat loaf without the addition of any gelatin. Also, the cold slices of a roast leg of veal are even better than the hot dish, and make an excellent main dish for a Sunday night supper.

As it is mild flavored, veal needs some spicy accompaniment—a tomato sauce or other sour dressing.

Veal cutlets are slices of meat from the leg and have no waste of bone. They should not be cut too thin. This is a custom of some restaurants where the meat is thickly coated with crumbs, and you get a paper thin slice of meat hard to find between crusty brown layers.

Cutlets should be about half an inch thick. Cut in pieces large enough for individual service. Mix an egg with two tablespoons of milk and a pinch of salt. Dip the cutlets into this mixture, then cover lightly with bread crumbs. Have a frying pan with a little fat in it very hot, and brown the cutlets quickly on each side so as to keep the juices in. Add one cupful of hot water or bouillon, then cover the pan, lower the flame, and let cook slowly about 30 minutes, or longer if need be, to be tender.

Jellied Veal
1 knuckle of veal
1 tablespoon of salt
1/2 teaspoon of pepper
1/2 teaspoon of paprika
1 tablespoon lemon juice
2 sweet green peppers
1 large onion

Put the veal and onion in a large saucepan and cover with cold water. Cook over a low flame for three hours. Then strain. Cook this liquid with the chopped peppers until it is reduced to about two cups. Add the meat, which must be removed from the bone and chopped. Pour into a loaf tin and when cool place in the icebox to chill. In a few hours it will be hard enough to cut into thin slices. Serve on a bed of lettuce with potato salad, or tomatoes, cucumbers or any cooked cold vegetable preferred.

"I am so happy that the last pimple is gone"

EVERY evening thousands enjoy themselves at dinner-parties, dances, theatres, games, clubs. Many thousands more are denied the joy of such merriment and happiness.

Maybe this denial is due to a skin trouble. First impressions cannot be good without a clear skin—first impressions are quickly made and are not soon forgotten. Old friends may excuse pimples and secretly sympathize, but new acquaintances may not be so charitable. Skin blemishes are not inviting. Neither can they be covered up. They embarrass. Hold people back. Steal away joy and happiness.

A lovely—clear skin—is within the reach of all. To those who have lost it, hope is offered. You, too, may have a beautiful skin, rose-petal in texture, pretty as a picture and without a single pimple.

Many thousands have regained their strength and charm by taking S.S.S. It is Nature's own blood tonic for raising the body's power of resistance to disease, improving the appetite, building firm flesh, and clearing the skin.

The way to the skin is through the blood. Strong, healthy blood nourishes the body and fights against infection and disease.

S.S.S. is made from fresh vegetable drugs and has a successful record of over 100 years back of it.

Take S.S.S. at meal-time. You will be delighted with its blood building and tonic effect. All Drug Stores sell S.S.S. Ask for the larger size. It is more economical.

MARY CELESTE'S FATE NOW SEEN SALVAGE PLAN

Mystery Still Cause Of Shivers to Old-Timers
Of Seas

Paris, July 11.—The fifty-seven-year-old mystery surrounding the fate of the American brig Mary Celeste—most famous of sea mysteries—has now been explained as a pure hoax to obtain salvage money. Lawrence J. Keating, who has devoted a lifetime to solving the mystery, has written a book on the subject, containing fully acceptable proofs. Sailors of many generations have crossed themselves and looked sideways when the name of the ill-fated brig Mary Celeste was mentioned. The Flying Dutchman held no more terror for the old salts than did the brig.

The Mary Celeste left New York in the fall of 1872 bound for Gibraltar, with a crew of ten including the captain's wife. On December 4, the ship was found a derelict and abandoned near Gibraltar by the British barkentine Dei Gratia.

No Bodies Found

No trace was found of bodies, the ship's safe contained many valuables showing that she had not been plundered, there was a meal set out in the cabin, with hot tea, and the stove was still warm from cooking.

Elaborate inquiries held at Gibraltar never shed any light on the mystery. The captain of the Dei Gratia remained firm in his statements regarding the finding of the Mary Celeste, and he was stoutly supported by his crew.

Mr. Keating produces an entirely new mass of evidence, collected from every possible source, in order to solve the mystery. Making use of statements by one Pemberton, alleged survivor of the Mary Celeste, he maintains that the ship was never abandoned.

When the Dei Gratia sighted her, there were four men on board, all quietly transferred to the Dei Gratia. These men subsequently held their tongues in the hopes of getting part of the salvage money.

In fact, three of these men had previously been members of the Dei Gratia crew. The latter ship was docked close to the Mary Celeste in New York. Mr. Keating shows, both were bound for Gibraltar, and as the Mary Celeste was short-handed the captain of the Dei Gratia loaned three of his men. The two captains made an agreement to meet at the Azores on the way.

The New Version

This is what happened to the Mary Celeste, according to Mr. Keating's version: The captain's wife had a piano which broke loose in a heavy sea and crushed her to death.

The captain, a bit "queer" before, now became insane. He accused the mate, a huge man named Hullock, known as the Baltimore Bully, of murdering her. Near the Azores, the captain jumped overboard.

Hullock was attacked by a man named Venholdt, a shaggy-headed landlubber. In the struggle, Venholdt was hurled overboard. At the Azores, Hullock and two sailors deserted from fear of being accused of mutiny and murder.

Four men remained, three of whom were original members of the Dei Gratia crew. When the latter ship came up with the Mary Celeste, west of Gibraltar, she took off the four survivors, and placed a prize crew of her own on board.

Moorhouse, the captain of the Dei Gratia, then concocted a mystery tale to validate a salvage claim, according to Keating.

Liquor Scarcity Seen By Dr. Doran

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Knopp last Wednesday.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Howard Feicht of Leontonia, last Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Feicht are former Greenford residents.

Miss Zara Hendricks who spent the last two weeks with her brother Carl and family in Rockland, returned home Saturday evening accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hendricks and son Bert, who will spend a week here with his parents Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Hendricks.

Donald Coburn of Indiana, agent for the Salem China Company, spent the Fourth here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Coburn and family.

Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Royer entertained a number of friends from Pittsburgh, Sunday.

The wind and rain storm which visited this section the night of the Fourth did considerable damage. A large tree in front of A. L. Taylor's was blown over on the house. A tall apple tree was blown over on the Walter lot and a bolt of lightning struck A. W. Bush's chimney, tearing it down and damaging the roof and a number of houses were rocked by the wind.

Mr. and Mrs. R. I. Hendricks and family and Mr. and Mrs. Guy Rhodes and family spent a social evening on the Fourth at the home of the former. Fireworks and refreshments were enjoyed.

Pauline Shirley spent last week with her cousin, Miss Grim, in Columbiana.

Arlene Calvin spent three weeks with her Uncle Ralph, and family at Locust Grove.

Mr. and Mrs. Al. Haefel spent the Fourth with Mr. and Mrs. Crist Ebbert in Niles.

J. B. Calvin painted his house recently.

Arthur Gerlach, of Milwaukee, arrived here last Saturday to spend two weeks with Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Williamson.

A. B. Williamson suffered a serious convulsion last Friday night and has been confined to his bed for a few days.

The Lutheran church will organize a Junior Luther League. A meeting will be held at 3 p. m. Sunday to which all children from nine to fifteen and over are asked to attend.

Rev. G. A. Roger will begin his two weeks' vacation the last Sunday in July.

Raymond Knopp expected to harvest 1,000 bushels of strawberries this season but owing to early frosts had but 650 bushels.

O. O. Rhodes and sister, Miss Barbara, of Pittsburgh, spent the Fourth here. Mr. Rhodes returned but Miss Barbara remained for a few weeks' visit with her sister, Miss Lydia.

Mr. and Mrs. Bricker entertained their son, Clyde Bricker and family of Millville rd. Salem, and daughter, Mrs. Clyde Zimmerman and family of the Georgetown rd. Salem, Sunday.

Raymond Rhodes and Miss Ruth Coburn attended the Goodman reunion last Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira Schurenberger visited Mr. Schurenberger's brother, Prof. John Moore, who is in the Central Clinic hospital, Salem. Mr. Moore was operated on last Saturday for strangulated hernia.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Ketrion of Sandusky, who returned from the south, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Eli Bricker, enroute home.
